

The Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) will be holding a Building Entrepreneurial Economies (BEE) Innovation Day to share and discuss innovative ideas in entrepreneurship development. Recent BEE Innovation and Implementation grant recipients will have a chance to share about their BEE funded projects and how they are having an impact on their communities.

The day will also allow for participants to discuss various aspects of the BEE program. A guest speaker from the Association for Enterprise Opportunity will also be featured to talk about their recent study on the topic of linking young adults to entrepreneurship and business opportunities. This event is free, but registration is required, as lunch will be provided.
